Sponsors: Fort Walla Walla Museum

For your budding social scientist this camp offers fun, hands-on activities to piece together early settler life in southeast Washington and learn what it takes to be an archaeologist from the Fort Walla Walla Museum's own staff archaeologist. Campers will increase their scientific literacy with the tools of the trade by:

- Discovering what our artifacts say about us.
- Learning how archeological sites are formed.
- Studying how to collect, categorize, analyze, and interpret data.
